Information regarding the FRP Recipe Collection website,
<https://www.frprecipecollection.com>

- This site works best using the Google Chrome web browser.
- Use your organization's book code to get started with an account.
- After creating your account, you should receive an email from recipes@frpbooks.com containing your user name and password. Please note that your password must be entered exactly as shown in the email—all passwords are case sensitive. Please keep this password in a safe place for future access to the site.
- If you experience technical trouble on the site, such as not being able to edit your recipes, please try clearing the cache for the recipe site's page (also known as a hard refresh). Some examples of how to do this are below. If this does not work, you can email kconnelly@swpublishinghouse.com for technical support.

First, make sure the page is the active open page in your web browser, then follow the instructions below.
